

EDIC – no sleep 'til Brexit!

With just a matter of weeks to go until Brexit day, and – as we write this – no sign as yet of any agreement on a final deal, the EDIC North Highlands & Islands team is working hard to ensure that local businesses, organisations and individuals have access to the information they need.

We continue to monitor the situation on a daily basis and ensure that the most up-to-date information is provided via our social media channels. We also work with a team of specialist legal advisers to provide specific answers to queries from concerned citizens.

Following on from our successful tour of the local agricultural shows last year, we're also planning a series of public events to answer any questions people have about Brexit or any other European matters. This March we'll be hosting a business breakfast in partnership with colleagues from the Local Export Partnership for the Highlands & Islands, along with drop-in sessions at Thurso and Wick libraries for members of the general public.

Whatever happens, the weeks leading up to Brexit day promise to be busy, and the EDIC team will be on hand to ensure that you have access to all the latest information and guidance.

If you have any questions or concerns about Brexit or any other European matters, contact EDIC today on europedirect@caithnesschamber.com or 01847 500108.